1.2. Constitutional actions

ÈSSD will enforce amendments to the constitutional law and its execution in the following areas:

- ÈSSD will propose a constitutional bill on referendums to allow the citizens to participate in decisions concerning critical issues of both domestic and foreign state policy.
- ÈSSD will propose an amendment to the Constitution concerning the office of the public protector of human rights (so called “ombudsman”) that will continuously monitor the level of compliance with human rights in the same manner as in most member states of the European Union; he or she will propose adequate changes to the legal system and in specific cases initiate an action in the administration court.
- in compliance with constitutional regulations ÈSSD will try to establish the General Administration Court and to carry out a reform of the administration judiciary in order to make it more accessible to the public. It will also deal with actions of the self-governing units (municipalities and regions).
