

Contents

List of Figures and Tables	x
Preface and Acknowledgements	xvi
Notes on Contributors	xix
List of Abbreviations	xxv
1 Asia: A Comparative Perspective	1
Maarten van Klaveren
1.1 Commonalities and differences	1
1.2 Inequality and informality	7
1.3 Minimum wages and collective bargaining	11
2 China	19
Yongjian Hu
2.1 Introduction	19
2.2 The wage-setting mechanism	20
2.3 Social security	25
2.4 The development of wages	26
2.5 Will demographic change and deepening globalization help to end cheap labour supply?	30
2.6 Conclusions and recommendations	34
3 Vietnam	39
Dang Quang Dieu and Hien Thi Thuong Dong
3.1 Economic development	39
3.2 Population and labour force	40
3.3 Role of the state concerning wage setting	41
3.4 The role and functioning of trade unions	42
3.5 The minimum wage	43
3.6 The informal economy	50
3.7 Collective labour agreements	52
3.8 Recommendations and conclusions	55
4 Korea	59
Maarten van Klaveren and Tae-Hyun Kim
4.1 Introduction	59
4.2 A history of export-led growth	60

4.3	Trade unions and collective bargaining	62
4.4	Labour market and inequality	65
4.5	The minimum wage	70
4.6	Korea and the Great Recession	73
4.7	Conclusions and recommendations	74
5	Japan	78
	Hansjörg Herr
5.1	Introduction	78
5.2	Macroeconomic development	78
5.3	Wage institutions and the labour market	82
5.4	Wage development and deflation	90
5.5	Conclusion	97
6	Pakistan	101
	Karamat Ali, Zeenat Hisam and Sohail Javed
6.1	Introduction	101
6.2	The national context	101
6.3	The labour market	103
6.4	Labour legislation and policies	106
6.5	Working conditions	107
6.6	Wages and prices	108
6.7	The minimum wage	110
6.8	The trade unions	112
6.9	Social security	116
6.10	Conclusions and recommendations	117
7	India	120
	Biju Varkkey
7.1	Introduction	120
7.2	The labour market	121
7.3	Minimum wages	123
7.4	The trade unions	129
7.5	MGNREGA and minimum wages	132
7.6	Conclusion and recommendations	135
8	Indonesia	139
	Surya Tjandra and Maarten van Klaveren
8.1	Introduction	139
8.2	The labour market	140
8.3	Wage-setting and social security institutions	142

8.4	Inequality and the minimum wage	148
8.5	Economic development and outlook for trade unions	151
9	Thailand	156
	Sakdina Chatrakul Na Ayudhya
9.1	Introduction	156
9.2	Historical background	156
9.3	Institutions and employment	157
9.4	The role of trade unions	161
9.5	The minimum wage	163
9.6	Recent changes and conflicts	165
9.7	Conclusion	170
10	Europe: A Comparative Perspective	173
	Maarten van Klaveren and Thorsten Schulten
10.1	Commonalities and differences throughout the crisis	173
10.2	Economic imbalances in Europe	177
10.3	Inequality and growth perspectives	179
10.4	A wage-led recovery? Contours of an alternative programme	182
11	France	188
	Michel Husson, Estelle Sommeiller and Catherine Vincent
11.1	Introduction	188
11.2	The minimum wage	189
11.3	Collective bargaining and the minimum wage	192
11.4	The minimum wage and wage inequalities	197
11.5	Development of wages: The long-term dynamics	201
11.6	Conclusion	208
12	Italy	211
	Salvo Leonardi and Riccardo Sanna
12.1	Introduction	211
12.2	Labour market and economic developments	212
12.3	The industrial relations system	215
12.4	Development of wages and social security institutions	221
12.5	Outlook and conclusion	226
13	Germany	230
	Thorsten Schulten and Reinhard Bispinck
13.1	Introduction	230
13.2	Collective bargaining: Partial erosion	231

13.3	Collective bargaining: Decentralization and fragmentation	234
13.4	Changes in power relations and the role of trade unions	236
13.5	Wage developments	238
13.6	Wages and economic development	243
13.7	The future of wage policy	245
14	The Netherlands	253
	Maarten van Klaveren and Kea Tijdens
14.1	Introduction	253
14.2	The labour market	254
14.3	Collective bargaining and social security institutions	255
14.4	Development of wages and social security	260
14.5	The recovery: Export-led or wage-led?	268
15	The Nordic Countries	273
	Line Eldring and Kristin Alsos
15.1	Introduction	273
15.2	Wage-setting institutions and minimum wage regulations	274
15.3	The future of Nordic minimum-wage regulation	283
16	Central and Eastern Europe	287
	Bela Galgoczi
16.1	Introduction	287
16.2	Main trends in wage developments	288
16.3	The effects of austerity policy on wages	294
16.4	Drivers of wage increases	298
16.5	Wage setting and collective bargaining	301
16.6	Conclusion	304
17	The United Kingdom	307
	Rupert Griffin and Denis Gregory
17.1	Introduction	307
17.2	Developments in the political economy	307
17.3	Trade unions and collective bargaining	311
17.4	The National Minimum Wage: A successful trade union campaign	315
17.5	Pressures on the social security system	321

18 The Russian Federation	325
Elena Gerasimova and Anna Bolsheva
18.1 Introduction	325
18.2 Labour market trends	327
18.3 Trade unions, collective bargaining and labour disputes	329
18.4 Wages and social security	334
18.5 Conclusions and recommendations	340
 Statistical Appendix: Comparative Statistics	 344
Index	355