

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Artis Pabriks Foreword . . . . .	5
Andis Kudors Introduction . . . . .	7
Part I Lessons Learned: Security
Rihards Bambals European Security, Defence, and Global Role: A Year After Crimea . . . . .	13
Jānis Bērziņš Russian New Generation Warfare is not Hybrid Warfare . . . . .	40
Jānis Kažociņš Baltic Security in the Shadow of Ukraine’s War . . . . .	52
Part II Lessons Learned: Economics
Roman Dobrokhотов Sanctions Against Russia: Economic and Political Consequences . . . . .	67
Kari Liuhto The Economic Dependence of EU Member States on Russia . . . . .	78
Olena Pavlenko, Anton Antonenko, and Roman Nitsovych War in the Energy Sector as a Second Front . . . . .	91
Part III Lessons Learned: Politics
Artis Pabriks How Should Europe React to Russia’s Proposed ‘New World Order’? . . . . .	111

Ian Bond
The EU, NATO and Ukraine: Prospects for Future Co-operation . . . . .	127
Māris Cepurītis
Revision of the European Union's Eastern Partnership After Russia's Aggression Against Ukraine . . . . .	146
Andis Kudors
Reinventing Views to the Russian Media and Compatriot Policy in the Baltic States . . . . .	157
Artis Pabriks, Andis Kudors
Conclusion: Lessons for Europe . . . . .	175
About the Authors . . . . .	179