

Latin America at 200

A New Introduction

PHILLIP BERRYMAN

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS PRESS  AUSTIN

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	vii
INTRODUCTION. Entering a Third Century	1
PART I. SOCIETY
1. Lands and Peoples: The Constraints and Opportunities of Geography and Demography	6
2. Confronting Urban Challenges	19
3. Agriculture in Transition: Food and Farmers	37
4. Corner Stores and Multilatinas : Business, Industry, and Labor in a Globalized World	51
5. Growth with Sustainability: Meeting the New Environmental Challenge	66
6. Highly Unequal—and Middle Class?	85
7. Overcoming Legacies of Conquest and Slavery: Indigenous Peoples and Afro-descendants	98
8. Machismo Contested: Changing Gender Roles and Expectations	117
9. A Changing Religious Landscape	134
PART II. HISTORY
10. Conquest and Colonial Order	154
11. Forging New Nations	170
12. The Zigzag Path to Democracy and Development	190
PART III. ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL CHALLENGES OF THE PRESENT
13. Toward Twenty-First-Century Economies	212
14. Making Democracy Work: Politics and the State	231

15.	Toward Rule of Law: Combating Crime and Corruption	251
16.	Bodies and Minds: Achievements and Obstacles in Health and Education	275
17.	Goods and People Crossing Borders: Dimensions of Globalization	295
	CONCLUSION. Hopes and Tasks of the Bicentennial Generation	318
	NOTES	321
	REFERENCES	337
	INDEX	357