Public service workers stand together for justice on May Day

This year's May Day celebrations come at a critical period for public sector workers and their unions, says the global union federation Public Services International. The celebrations take place against a background of growing pressure on fundamental workers' rights around the world.

Public Service International's general secretary visits Ecuador on May Day

PSI general secretary, Peter Waldorff, will join PSI affiliates in Ecuador during their celebrations on International Worker's Day. Waldorff's visit to the Andean region comes at a time when government policies in many Andean countries are showing a downward trend in terms of the exercise of freedom of association, collective bargaining and the right to strike for public sector workers at all professional and occupational levels.

28 April International Workers' Memorial Day

Emergencies and disasters are a fact of life: public service workers must be consulted and involved in planning, decision-making and delivery at all levels of disaster scenarios. On International Workers' Memorial Day, PSI members, our families and communities join together to remember and mourn our sisters and brothers who have been killed or injured at work when saving the lives of others, and we pledge to continue our fight for the rights of the living.

PSI videos: March for the alternative

PSI commissioned two videos during the March for Alternative on 26 March 2011. PSI affiliates gathered in London and Belfast to march against the austerity cuts proposed by the UK government. PSI was there to film the events and to ask public sector workers what they think of the cuts and how people will be affected.

Please send your union videos

PSI would like to feature affiliate unions' videos on the PSI website and to support the Quality Public Services campaign. Please send internet links to your union videos to communications@world-psi.org. PSI will make a selection of the videos for showing at the PSI World Congress in Durban, South Africa, in November 2012.
