Project for a dictionary of security-related terminology in Indonesia

Indonesia has become the world's third largest democracy after only one decade of Reformasi. The country is receiving continuous support in its efforts to consolidate its democratic institutions. One focus area is the reform and professionalization of the security sector. This reform is understood predominantly in terms of embedding the security sector firmly and sustainably in the democratic institutions of the Republic. Beyond this pivotal issue, just as important is a democratic dialogue about security and defense policy. Indonesians need to talk about security and develop a common understanding of the security threats, challenges, and risks ahead in order to develop democratically legitimized strategies and policies to cope with them. One crucial precondition is that all those involved in this dialogue have the same language at their disposal when talking security. For a long time, dialogue on security issues has been limited to the security sector and a small circle of experts, excluding large parts of the political elite, the media, and civil society. This is partly due to the complexity and sensitivity of the issues under discussion, but it is also due to the complex technical and supposedly exclusive language of security-related terminology. This dictionary seeks to translate the exclusive security sector language, thus opening up the dialogue to those so far excluded.

Security has two dimensions: internal and external. They are interlinked, especially in today's globalized environment. Therefore, security dialogues have also tended to become more globalized. As described by Dr. Ingo Wandelt in his foreword to the dictionary, this dialogue is conducted predominantly in the lingua franca of security terminology, English. With this dictionary we want to facilitate the involvement of Indonesian experts, policy-makers, and the interested public in international debates on national, regional, and global security. This is necessary in order to communicate best practices, negotiate and coordinate multinational security initiatives, and co-operate on the political stage as well as on the ground.

One volume devoted entirely to acronyms and abbreviations?

The security sector loves acronyms and abbreviations, and Indonesians love them too. This is strongly reflected in Indonesian security terminology. There is a huge proliferation of acronyms and abbreviations, which facilitates efficient communication among experts, but complicates communication with the general public and the international community. This volume of the Indonesian–English dictionary on security-related terminology, compiled by Dr. Ingo Wandelt, presents the most frequently used Indonesian acronyms and abbreviations from the security sector. In its current form it is only provisional. The complete edition of the dictionary, which is still undergoing intensive review by a team of experts from the National Resilience Institute, Lemhanas, and other international experts, is scheduled to be published at the end of 2009.

We would like to thank Dr. Ingo Wandelt for his tremendous efforts in compiling this comprehensive dictionary from a huge variety of publicly available sources over a long period of time. We would also like to thank all those who actively participated in the production of this dictionary and contributed to this joint effort.

Foreword

by Dr. Ingo Wandelt

Acronyms and abbreviations are a specific and salient feature of modern Indonesian specialized languages, and the fields of security, defense, and the military are no exceptions. The observer and user of the technical languages of modern Bahasa Indonesia is inevitably confronted by masses of examples of this linguistic feature. Acronyms and abbreviations are often indispensable and of high practical value, however, rather than a burden. They allow the shortening of often long designations of processes, names, and technical terms into manageable combinations of syllables. I would even go as far as to argue that a term is not fully “Indonesian” until it has an acronymic abbreviation. This volume of modern security-related terminology in Indonesia is specifically reserved for this linguistic phenomenon that current Indonesian security and military discourse cannot do without.

Specialized and technical terminologies of modern Bahasa Indonesia have long been influenced by global language developments. The end of the Cold War in particular saw the rise of the Anglo-American model of military and security standards into a global role model, further consolidating English as the dominant medium for global security and military discourse. Indonesian military and security terminologies have been affected by this. Newly-developed technical terms and terminologies of the English-speaking military world entered the Indonesian military (ABRI), and have even more shaped the recent era of military and security sector reform in particular. Many an item borrowed from English has been Indonesianized, and over time has also acquired an acronymic equivalent. The reforms of the military (TNI) accelerated language change, as new demands for professionalization and adaption to foreign standards entered the military world. The Indonesian language, however, will remain the dominant medium of communication of the Indonesian security sector and in Indonesian society and will not be replaced by English. Nevertheless, it will have to accept many more foreign terms and somehow integrate them into its vocabulary. Military and security English will only increase in importance.

To complicate matters further, there is no single or unified military English. On the contrary, this language variant is quite diverse and irregular, as it has developed from many armies with unique traditions that only happen to share a common language. While Europe possesses a somewhat unified “NATO English,” Indonesia has to handle many country- and army-specific types of military English. The first draft of this volume contained German-language items, which in the end were left out. They are of limited relevance for Indonesian users. They were, however, indispensable for me to work on appropriate equivalents for Indonesian terms, as well as to bridge the German–English language divide. Yet, it is planned to include the German language items in the final complete edition of the dictionary which will also provide more in-depth explanations of Indonesian terms. Military German is almost as far from military English as it is from military Indonesian. The Indonesian military variant to me seems much closer specifically to US American military language, which can be explained by the fact that early ABRI terminology drew heavily on US Army Field Manuals from the early 1960s onwards. English has had less of an influence on German military language, with its century-old linguistic tradition, but English will certainly have a profound effect on Indonesian military and security language development in the future. Their military language tradition is still relatively young, looking back on only three generations of speakers.

Linguistic change involves more than just adapting to arising communicative needs. It implies a change in the use of language and communication and their traditions. It affects the community of speakers. Ongoing global processes of military and security transformation will transform the languages and terminologies affected by it. However, there is one feature, I would dare to assert, that will remain a linguistic bastion, namely the widespread application of acronyms and abbreviations in specialized and technical languages. Change will transform the substance and the semantics, but not this feature.

It is interesting to note that, contrary to common opinion, both acronyms and abbreviations are more or less evenly distributed in the security and military languages of Indonesia, as this listing will prove. It seems that acronyms are just more popular and prominent in public discourse.

Another recent source of linguistic change, both globally and regionally, of which Indonesia is an example, is the progressive convergence of the civilian and the military worlds, enhanced by the demands for comprehensive security and network-centric types of defense and security. Over years of compiling items for this volume I observed how new words, terms, and basic terminologies developed in the civilian sphere of non-governmental and non-military activities and organizations and slowly but surely became an integral part of security and military terminologies. Recent terminologies of natural disaster relief and management, crisis management, and a range of social activities can serve as examples. This process will only accelerate in the near future.

This listing of Indonesian acronyms and abbreviations in military and security discourse developed over years of personal observation from outside, that is, from Germany. It was largely made possible by new media developments that opened up new sources of terminological observation and acquisition of foreign languages. As Indonesia's security sector reform developed in parallel to the technological advancement of the global Internet, with Indonesian security and military institutions making frequent use of this new medium, the Internet became a viable means of compiling a foreign-language dictionary from abroad. From about 2001 the Internet presence of the Ministry of Defense (Dephan), the military (TNI), and specialized public and personal media (blogs) in general enabled the thorough coverage of Indonesian military and security terminologies. Print media texts were included whenever I could get hold of them. However, my lack of personal contacts with Indonesian speakers of these technical languages, and the relative seclusion of the Indonesian military, ultimately restricted the scope of these listings to a concise format. Recently established Indonesian websites that provide lexicon-type explanations of military and security terms were a great help. The armed forces (TNI) websites merit particular mention. The present listing, thus, is still preliminary in nature and open to future expansion.

Some general entries are presented briefly in this edition, too, mentioning relevant context-related meanings only. For them the final and complete edition of the dictionary will provide the authoritative version with more in-depth explanations of the Indonesian terms.

About FES

The Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung is a German political foundation and has been working with partners in Indonesia for more than 40 years. Committed to the ideals of Social Democracy and the Trade Union Movement, FES Indonesia's primary aim is to strengthen democracy and social justice in Indonesia.

The means of achieving these goals are capacity-building together with our Indonesian partners and the facilitation of local, national, regional, and global policy dialogues.

Two important topics in our work in Indonesia are peaceful conflict resolution and security sector reform.

A socially just democracy requires an indispensable precondition: internal as well as external peace and security. As one of the world's most diverse nations, with huge disparities between different parts of society in terms of resources and political influence, Indonesia is also the arena of a range of potential and latent conflicts (economic, social, religious, territorial). While enormous progress has been made in terms of conflict resolution since the beginning of Reformasi in 1998 – for instance, in the province of Aceh – FES is striving to further empower its partners and to contribute to conflict prevention in every area of its activities.

One special concern in this regard is the security sector in Indonesia. The security sector is one of the pillars of the Indonesian nation-state. However, since the beginning of Reformasi the democratic aspirations of Indonesian society and state have also required a number of changes in the security sector. FES is working to empower our partners to contribute to the corresponding dialogue and policy-formulation processes. In order to ensure that Indonesian civil society, the government, and the security sector jointly support a robust and viable democracy, an open civilian–military dialogue is vital. A professional and democratically embedded security sector can safeguard a free and sovereign Indonesia without restricting civil liberties and interfering in democratically legitimized policy processes.

Proyek tentang kamus terminologi di bidang keamanan Indonesia

Dalam waktu hanya satu dekade sejak dimulainya era Reformasi, Indonesia telah menjadi negara demokratik terbesar ketiga di dunia. Dalam upaya untuk memperkuat pilar-pilar demokrasinya, negara ini menerima dukungan yang terus-menerus dari berbagai pihak. Salah satu fokusnya adalah reformasi dan profesionalisasi sektor keamanan di Indonesia. Reformasi ini terutama dipahami dalam hal melekatkan sektor keamanan secara tegas dan berkelanjutan ke dalam institusi-institusi yang menopang demokrasi di negara ini. Tetapi selain isu ini, hal yang juga tak kalah penting adalah adanya dialog yang demokratis tentang kebijakan pertahanan dan keamanan. Masyarakat Indonesia perlu membahas masalah keamanan dan mengembangkan pemahaman bersama mengenai ancaman, tantangan, dan risiko-risiko terhadap keamanan dengan tujuan untuk mengembangkan strategi dan kebijakan yang memiliki legitimasi demokratik untuk mengatasi ancaman, tantangan, dan risiko-risiko ini. Salah satu prasyarat yang utama adalah, bahwa semua pihak yang terlibat dalam dialog ini mempunyai bahasa yang sama saat berbicara tentang topik keamanan. Sudah sejak lama, dialog yang membahas isu-isu keamanan semacam itu hanya terbatas pada sektor keamanan dan segelintir kelompok ahli, sementara tidak mengikutsertakan sebagian besar dari para elit politik, media massa, dan masyarakat sipil. Sebagian terjadi karena kompleksitas dan sensitivitas isu-isu yang dibahas, dan juga karena istilah-istilah teknis yang menyangkut keamanan sangat kompleks dan mungkin juga karena sifatnya yang eksklusif. Kamus ini bertujuan untuk menerjemahkan bahasa dalam sektor keamanan yang dinilai eksklusif, sehingga dapat membuka kemungkinan dialog kepada mereka yang selama ini belum berpartisipasi dalam diskusi.

Bidang keamanan mempunyai dua dimensi: keamanan internal dan eksternal. Keduanya saling berkaitan, terutama di era globalisasi seperti saat ini. Oleh karena itu, dialog-dialog tentang keamanan juga memiliki kecenderungan untuk lebih mengglobal. Seperti telah dijabarkan oleh Dr. Ingo Wandelt dalam kata pengantaranya untuk kamus ini, dialog ini umumnya berlangsung dalam bahasa universal dalam terminologi di bidang keamanan, yaitu Bahasa Inggris. Melalui kamus ini, kami ingin memfasilitasi para ahli, pembuat kebijakan, dan masyarakat Indonesia lainnya yang tertarik untuk dapat terlibat dalam diskusi internasional tentang masalah-masalah keamanan nasional, regional, dan global. Hal ini diperlukan untuk dapat mengkomunikasikan contoh praktek terbaik, menegosiasikan dan mengkoordinasikan inisiatif keamanan multinasional, serta kerjasama di tataran kebijakan politis maupun penerapannya di lapangan.

Satu volume hanya tentang akronim dan singkatan?

Mereka yang terlibat dalam sektor keamanan “sangat mengemari” akronim dan singkatan, tidak jauh berbeda dengan masyarakat Indonesia yang juga “menggemari” akronim dan singkatan. Baik akronim maupun singkatan sama-sama melebur dalam terminologi keamanan Indonesia. Terdapat penyebaran penggunaan akronim dan singkatan, yang meskipun memfasilitasi komunikasi yang efisien di antara para ahli, juga mempersulit komunikasi dengan masyarakat luas dan masyarakat internasional yang tertarik pada bidang ini. Oleh karena itu, volume yang baru ini, yaitu kamus Indonesia-Inggris tentang terminologi yang berkaitan dengan sektor keamanan Indonesia yang disusun oleh Dr. Ingo Wandelt, menyajikan sebuah kompilasi khusus mengenai akronim-akronim dan singkatan-singkatan dalam bahasa Indonesia yang paling sering digunakan dalam bidang keamanan. Kamus ini masih merupakan versi awal. Sementara itu, kamus edisi lengkap, yang masih dalam proses pengkajian oleh Tim Ahli dari Lembaga Ketahanan Nasional (Lemhanas) dan para ahli internasional lainnya, dijadwalkan akan diterbitkan pada akhir tahun 2009.

Kami ingin mengucapkan terima kasih kepada Dr. Ingo Wandelt atas usahanya yang luar biasa dalam menyusun kamus yang sangat komprehensif dari beragam sumber yang tersedia sejak puluhan tahun lamanya. Selebihnya kami ingin berterima kasih kepada semua pihak yang secara aktif terlibat dalam proses produksi kamus dan berkontribusi terhadap proyek bersama ini.

Kata Pengantar

Oleh Dr. Ingo Wandelt

Akronim dan singkatan, keduanya merupakan sifat dan ciri khas dari Bahasa Indonesia modern. Sektor keamanan, pertahanan, dan militer juga tidak terlepas dari sifat-sifat ini. Tidak dapat dihindari, para pemerhati dan pengguna teknis Bahasa Indonesia modern telah dihadapkan pada banyaknya jenis bahasa seperti ini. Akronim dan singkatan seringkali tidak dapat digantikan dengan gaya bahasa lain, bahkan cenderung dianggap bermanfaat, dan bukan sebagai beban. Selain itu, berbagai proses, nama, dan ungkapan teknis yang seringkali sangat panjang, dapat diringkas menjadi serangkaian kombinasi suku kata yang mudah dipergunakan. Saya bahkan berani mengatakan, bahwa sebuah istilah belumlah dapat disebut sebagai istilah dalam Bahasa Indonesia, jika belum memiliki sebuah akronim atau singkatan. Volume tentang istilah-istilah dalam sektor keamanan ini ditujukan khusus untuk merespon fenomena linguistik tersebut, yang tidak dapat ditinggalkan oleh wacana keamanan dan militer di Indonesia saat ini.

Terminologi-terminologi teknis dan khusus dari Bahasa Indonesia modern telah sejak lama dipengaruhi oleh perkembangan bahasa secara global. Khususnya pada akhir Perang Dingin, kita melihat munculnya standar yang digunakan dalam bidang keamanan dan militer yang diambil dari model Anglo-Amerika, menjadi model acuan global. Hal ini yang selanjutnya mengantarkan bahasa Inggris sebagai media yang dominan dalam wacana mengenai keamanan dan militer global. Berbagai terminologi Bahasa Indonesia dalam bidang keamanan dan militer juga telah terpengaruh oleh fenomena ini. Istilah dan terminologi teknis yang baru muncul saat itu bersumber dari dunia militer yang menggunakan bahasa Inggris dan diadopsi oleh militer Indonesia (ABRI). Lebih jauh, hal itu telah membentuk era reformasi militer dan keamanan saat ini. Banyak istilah yang 'dipinjam' dari bahasa Inggris telah di-Bahasa Indonesia-kan, dan seiring dengan perjalanan waktu istilah-istilah tersebut juga memiliki versi akronimnya. Reformasi TNI telah mempercepat perubahan bahasa, sejalan dengan banyaknya tuntutan profesionalisasi dan adaptasi terhadap standar-standar asing dalam dunia militer. Bagaimanapun juga bahasa Indonesia akan tetap menjadi media komunikasi yang dominan dalam sektor keamanan dan juga di kalangan masyarakat Indonesia, sehingga tidak akan digantikan oleh bahasa Inggris. Walaupun begitu, Bahasa Indonesia harus menerima banyak istilah asing yang akan terus berdatangan dan dapat sedemikian rupa mengintegrasikannya ke dalam perbendaharaan kata. Istilah-istilah militer dan keamanan dalam bahasa Inggris akan menjadi semakin penting.

Permasalahannya adalah, saat ini tidak terdapat satu versi ataupun satu kesepahaman tentang terminologi Bahasa Inggris militer. Sebaliknya, variasi-variasi bahasa yang ada cukup beragam dan tidak memiliki bentuk tetap, karena ia dikembangkan dari banyak angkatan bersenjata yang memiliki tradisi-tradisi yang unik dan secara kebetulan memiliki bahasa yang sama. Sementara Eropa mempunyai satu kesepahaman akan “Bahasa Inggris NATO”, Indonesia harus menghadapi berbagai jenis bahasa Inggris khusus yang digunakan dalam dunia militer di banyak negara dan angkatan bersenjata. Naskah pertama volume ini juga memasukkan terjemahan dalam bahasa Jerman, yang akhirnya dihapus, karena memiliki sedikit relevansi untuk masyarakat Indonesia. Walaupun begitu, istilah-istilah dalam bahasa Jerman tersebut sangat saya butuhkan untuk mencari kecocokan bahasa dengan terminologi dalam Bahasa Indonesia. Selain itu, mereka juga berfungsi untuk menjembatani pembagian ke dalam bahasa Inggris-Jerman. Namun, terminologi bahasa Jerman tersebut direncanakan untuk disertakan dalam kamus edisi terakhir, yang juga akan memberikan penjelasan yang lebih mendalam tentang istilah-istilah Bahasa Indonesia. Terminologi militer Jerman dapat dikatakan berbeda dari terminologi Inggris, sebagaimana halnya dengan terminologi Bahasa Indonesia. Jenis bahasa militer Indonesia menurut pendapat saya lebih dekat ke versi militer Amerika, karena pada kenyataannya terminologi awal ABRI banyak diambil dari Buku Panduan Lapangan Angkatan Darat Amerika pada awal tahun 1960-an dan seterusnya. Bahasa Inggris mempunyai sedikit pengaruh pada bahasa militer Jerman, yang memiliki tradisi linguistik yang kuat selama berabad-abad. Tetapi bahasa Inggris akan memiliki efek yang mendalam pada perkembangan bahasa militer dan keamanan di Indonesia di masa yang akan datang. Tradisi bahasan militer Indonesia masih relatif muda, karena baru dialami oleh tiga generasi penutur.

Perubahan linguistik melibatkan lebih dari sekadar adaptasi terhadap munculnya kebutuhan komunikasi. Hal ini juga membutuhkan perubahan dalam penggunaan bahasa dan komunikasi serta tradisi-tradisi mereka. Hal itu juga mempengaruhi komunitas penutur. Proses transformasi militer dan keamanan global yang sedang berjalan akan merubah bahasa dan terminologi-terminologi yang terpengaruh oleh semua hal itu. Namun saya berpendapat bahwa terdapat satu ciri khas dalam Bahasa Indonesia yang akan tetap menjadi ‘benteng pertahanan’ secara linguistik, yaitu penyebaran penggunaan akronim dan singkatan dalam bahasa yang teknis dan terspesialisasi. Substansi dan semantik dapat bertransformasi, tetapi tidak akan dapat menyentuh ciri khas yang satu ini.

Sangatlah menarik untuk dicatat – dan bertentangan dengan opini umum – bahwa akronim dan singkatan sedikit banyak tersebar secara merata di perbendaharaan bahasa militer dan keamanan Indonesia, sebagaimana akan dibuktikan oleh kamus ini. Hanya saja, tampaknya akronim lebih populer dan lazim digunakan dalam wacana publik.

Sumber perubahan linguistik terkini lainnya secara global ataupun regional, di mana Indonesia merupakan salah satu contoh, terletak pada konvergensi progresif dari dunia sipil dan militer; dipicu oleh tuntutan akan kebutuhan keamanan komprehensif serta tipe-tipe pertahanan dan keamanan yang berpusat pada jejaring. Selama bertahun-tahun saya menyusun entri-entri untuk volume ini, saya mengamati bagaimana kata-kata, istilah-istilah baru, dan terminologi-terminologi dasar berkembang di ranah sipil dalam berbagai kegiatan dan organisasi non-pemerintah dan non-militer. Perlahan tapi pasti, hal ini akan menjadi bagian integral dari terminologi-terminologi keamanan dan militer, contohnya terminologi terkini dalam bidang manajemen dan bantuan bencana alam, manajemen krisis, dan aktivitas-aktivitas sosial lainnya. Tidak lama lagi, proses ini akan mengalami percepatan.

Penyusunan akronim dan singkatan Indonesia dalam wacana kemiliteran dan keamanan ini dikembangkan selama bertahun-tahun berdasarkan pengamatan pribadi yang dilakukan di luar negeri, yaitu di Jerman. Hal tersebut dimungkinkan karena adanya perkembangan media baru yang memberi akses bagi pengamatan terminologis dan penciptaan terminologi baru dari bahasa asing. Karena reformasi sektor keamanan Indonesia berjalan seiring dengan kemajuan teknologi global Internet – media ini juga sering digunakan oleh institusi-institusi keamanan dan militer Indonesia – maka penggunaan Internet sangat berarti dalam penyusunan kamus bahasa asing dari luar negara yang bersangkutan. Sejak kira-kita tahun 2001, eksistensi Departemen Pertahanan (Dephan), TNI, dan media-media publik dan penyampaian opini individu (blog) di Internet secara umum telah memungkinkan ulasan menyelewuh tentang terminologi-terminologi militer dan keamanan Indonesia. Tulisan-tulisan dari media cetak juga turut menjadi sumber. Namun, kontak saya yang terbatas dengan para penutur dari Indonesia mengenai bahasa teknis ini mengakibatkan cakupan daftar-daftar akronim dan singkatan ini menjadi terbatas dan hanya menghasilkan format yang ringkas. Situs-situs internet berbahasa Indonesia yang baru-baru ini muncul dan menyajikan penjelasan dalam bentuk kosa kata tentang terminologi militer dan keamanan, telah sangat membantu. Situs internet TNI adalah salah satunya. Dengan begitu, daftar ini masih merupakan bentuk awal dan terbuka untuk pengembangan di masa yang akan datang.

Beberapa entri umum juga disajikan secara ringkas dalam edisi ini, tapi dengan hanya menjabarkan pengertian yang relevan dengan konteksnya. Untuk hal itu, kamus edisi terakhir dan lebih lengkap akan menyediakan versi yang lebih jelas dengan penjelasan mengenai berbagai istilah dalam Bahasa Indonesia yang lebih mendalam.

Tentang FES

Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung merupakan sebuah yayasan politik Jerman dan telah bekerja sama dengan berbagai pihak di Indonesia selama lebih dari 40 tahun. Sebagai organisasi yang berkomitmen terhadap ide-ide Sosial Demokrat dan Pergerakan Serikat Pekerja, tujuan utama FES Indonesia adalah:

memperkuat demokrasi dan keadilan sosial di Indonesia.

Tujuan-tujuan ini diupayakan melalui pengembangan kemampuan bersama dengan mitra-mitra lokal dan fasilitasi dialog kebijakan di tingkat lokal, nasional, regional, dan global.

Dua tema penting dalam aktivitas FES di Indonesia adalah resolusi konflik secara damai dan reformasi sektor keamanan.

Kondisi demokrasi yang adil secara sosial membutuhkan prasyarat yang harus dipenuhi: keamanan dan perdamaian internal dan juga eksternal. Sebagai salah satu negara yang paling plural di dunia, dengan perbedaan sumber daya dan pengaruh politik yang besar antara bagian-bagian masyarakatnya, Indonesia juga merupakan sebuah arena bagi serangkaian konflik-konflik (ekonomi, sosial, agama, kewilayahan) laten yang mungkin muncul. Sementara banyak kemajuan yang telah dicapai dalam bidang resolusi konflik sejak bergulirnya Reformasi 1998 – contohnya di Provinsi Nanggroe Aceh Darussalam – FES terus bekerja keras untuk mendukung para mitra dan berkontribusi terhadap pencegahan konflik di setiap wilayah aktivitasnya.

Salah satu perhatian utama dalam kerangka ini adalah sektor keamanan di Indonesia. Sektor keamanan merupakan salah satu pilar dari negara-bangsa Indonesia. Namun, sejak awal Reformasi, cita-cita demokratis dari masyarakat dan negara Indonesia juga membutuhkan banyak perubahan di sektor keamanan. FES bekerja demi mendukung mitra-mitra untuk berkontribusi terhadap dialog dan proses perumusan kebijakan. FES bertujuan untuk memfasilitasi terciptakannya sistem di mana masyarakat sipil, pemerintah, dan sektor keamanan Indonesia bekerjasama untuk mendukung demokrasi yang kuat dan berkelanjutan. Oleh karena itu dialog yang terbuka antara sipil dan militer menjadi hal yang amat penting. Sektor keamanan yang profesional dan demokratis dapat melindungi berfungsinya masyarakat Indonesia yang bebas dan berdaulat tanpa membatasi kebebasan sipil dan mencampuri proses politik yang demokratis dan memiliki legitimasi.
